HOW TO USE THIS

Before You Begin

This book only works with two people: someone asking, and someone answering. Sit down together — at a kitchen table, on a porch, wherever's comfortable — and let the questions do the work.

This book works in two moves:

ASK Read the question out loud, printed large so it's easy to read from across a table. Let the answer take as long as it takes.

WRITE Write down what they say, in their words, on the lines provided. You don't have to capture every word — just the story.

Some questions will get a short answer. Some will take twenty minutes. Both are the right length.

There's no order you have to follow. Skip around. Come back next visit. The only rule is to actually sit down and ask.

SECTION ONE · 7 QUESTIONS

Childhood

Start at the beginning. Most stories do.

ASK

What's a game you played as a child that no one plays anymore?

ANSWER

[illegible]
