The Map You Draw

A Personal Atlas of Everywhere You Actually Go

it only has to make sense to you.

Before You Begin

Forget scale. Forget north. This isn't the map a satellite would draw — it's the one only you could draw, built from memory, habit, and the hundred small decisions that make a neighborhood yours instead of anyone else's.

This book works in one move, repeated:

MARK Each page gives you one thing to place on your map — a feeling, a memory, a fact only you'd know. Draw roads, buildings, landmarks, or just a shape and a label. There's no wrong way to draw a street you've never measured.

You don't have to fill a page in one sitting. This book is built to be carried, opened, and added to over weeks or months — a mark today, another next time you think of it. Some pages might connect to each other. Some won't. Both are fine.

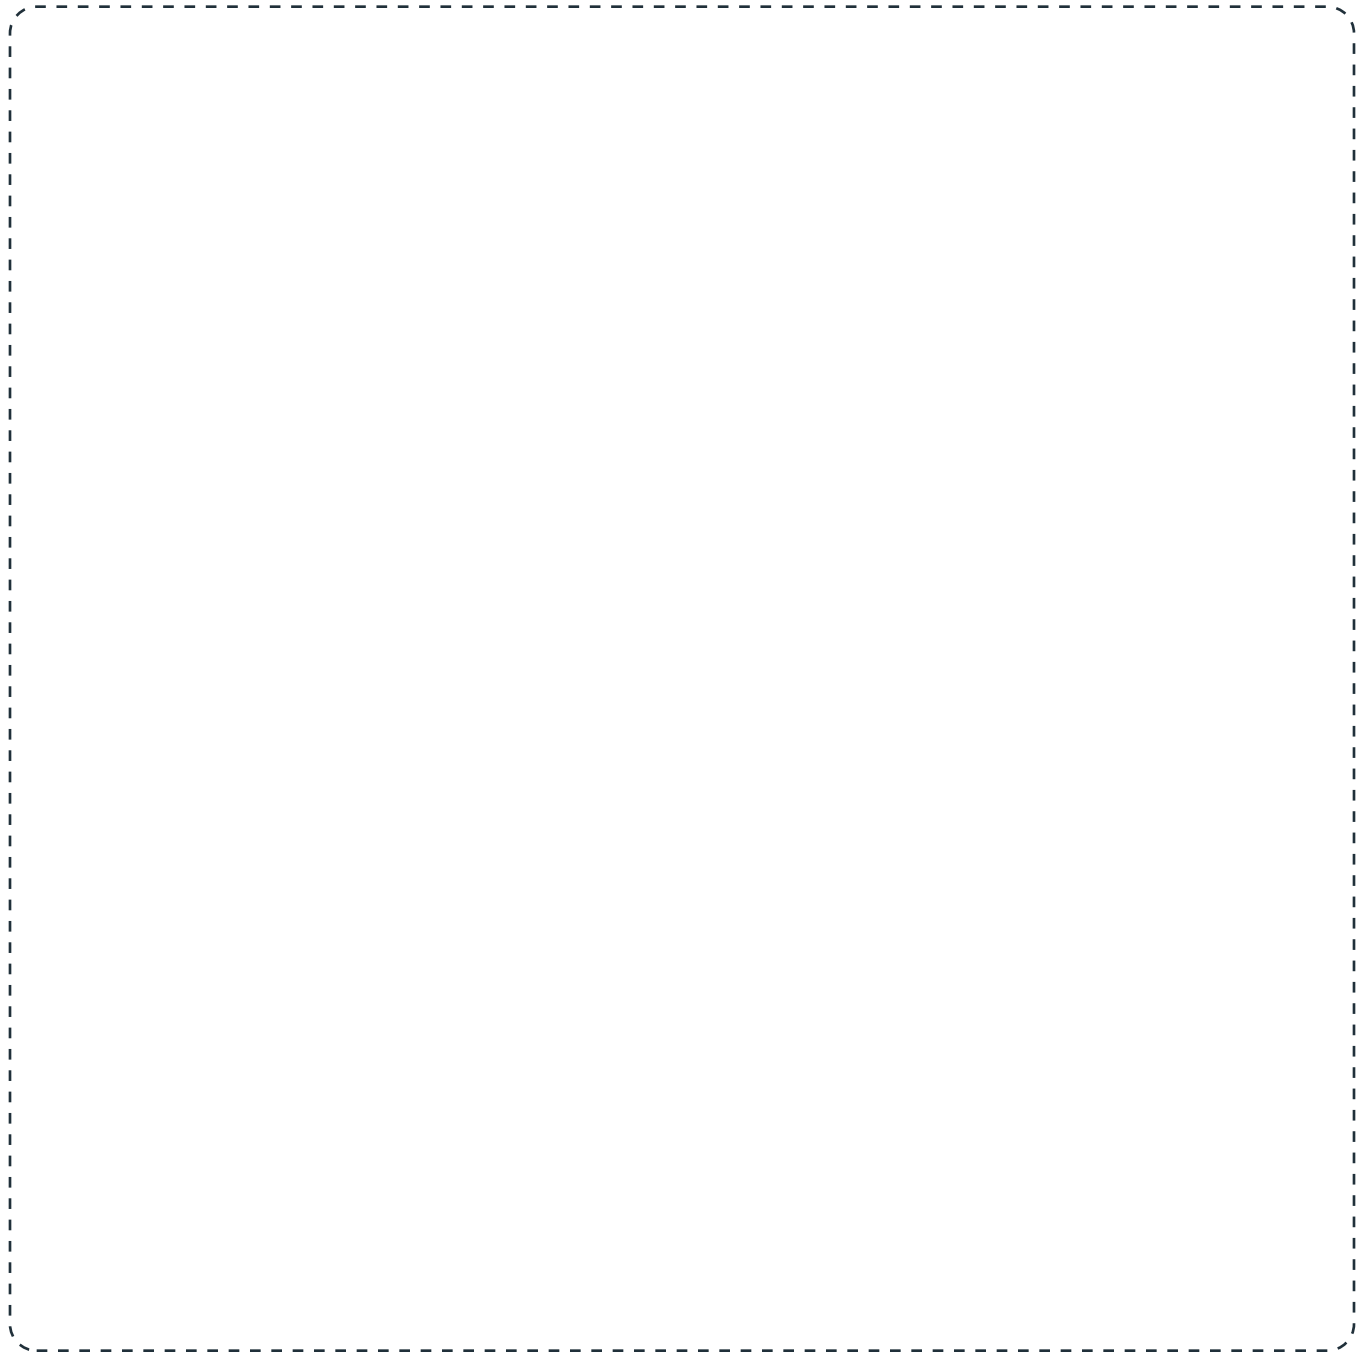

There is no correct version of your neighborhood. There's only the one you carry around in your head — half memory, half habit. This book is just where you finally put it down on paper.

Start anywhere. Draw slowly. It only has to make sense to you.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark the place that smells the best on your street.

A large, empty rectangular area defined by a dashed line, intended for a drawing or marking.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere you've walked past a hundred times but never entered.

A large dashed rectangular box with rounded corners, intended for a user to draw or mark a location on a map.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark where you'd hide if you were eight years old again.

A large, empty rectangular area defined by a dashed line, intended for a user to mark a location on a map.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark the loudest spot within five minutes of home.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for marking a spot on a map or diagram.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark the quietest spot within five minutes
of home.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for marking a spot. The box is oriented vertically and occupies most of the lower half of the page.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a place that belongs to someone else's memory, not yours.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark the spot where you always run into someone you know.

A large dashed rectangular box with rounded corners, intended for marking a spot on a map or drawing.

MARK

Visited: _____

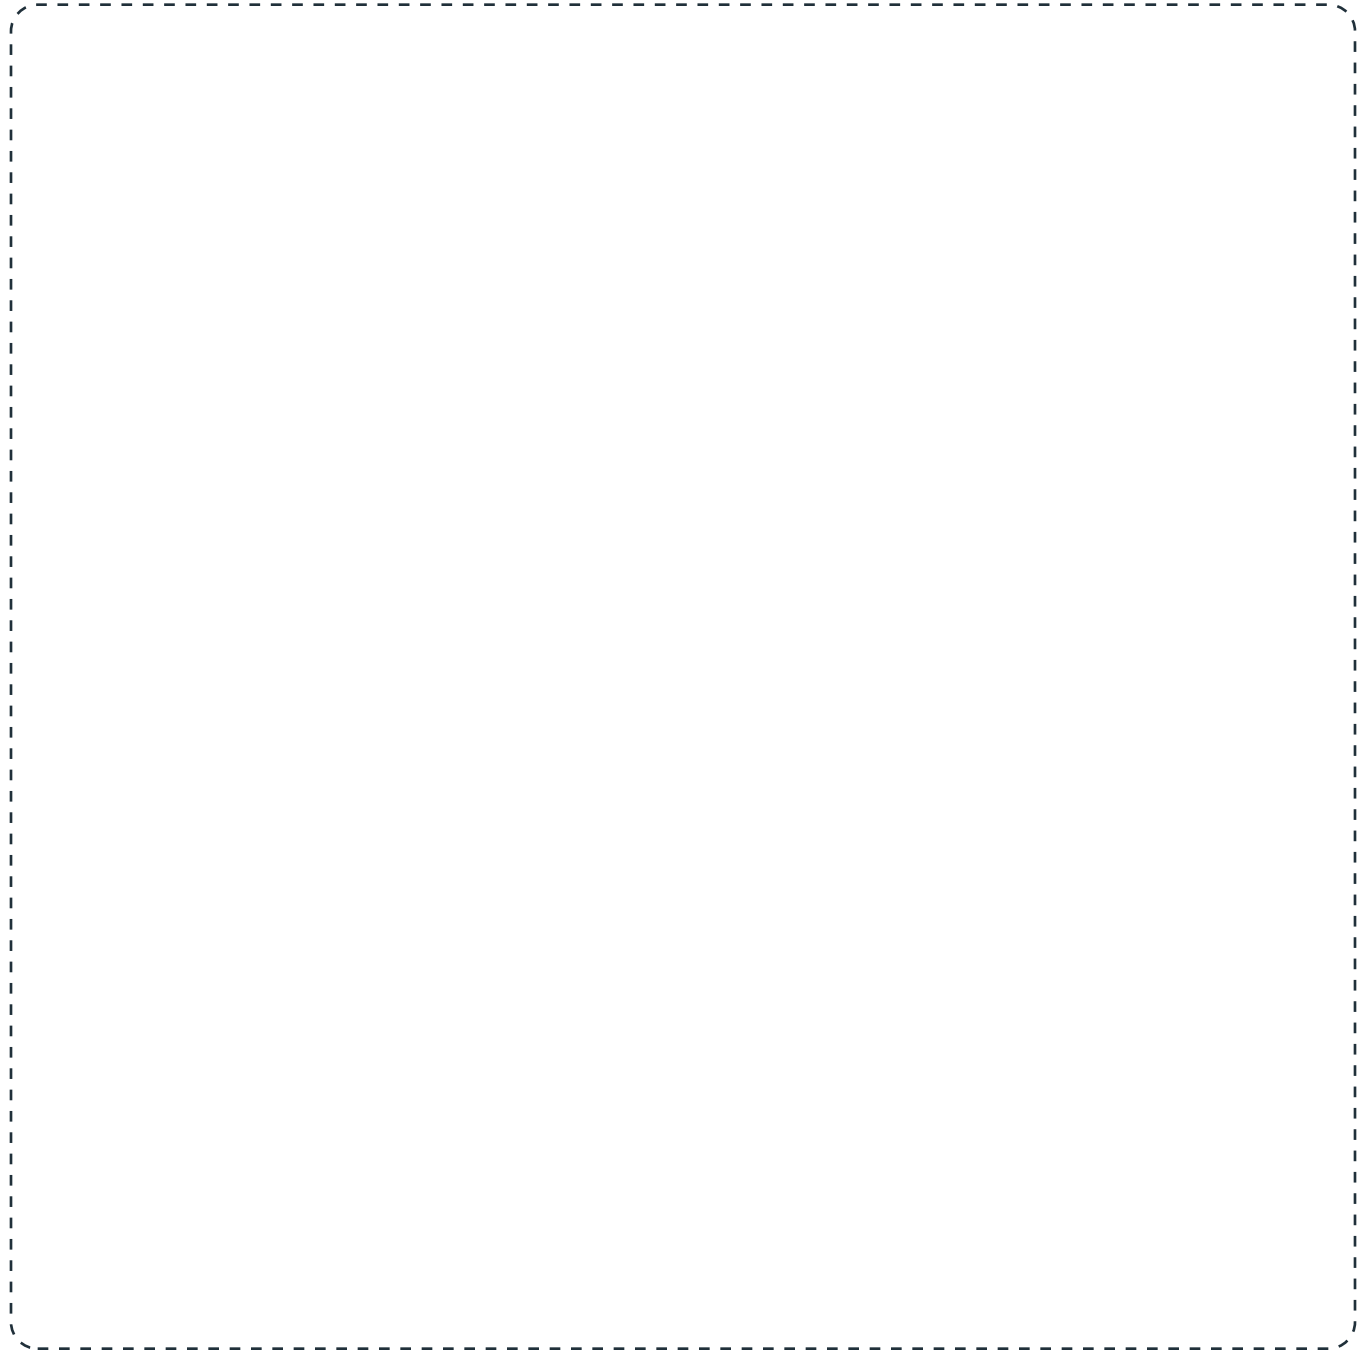

Mark somewhere that looks completely different at night.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for a user to draw or mark a location.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark the shortest way somewhere, even if you never take it.

MARK

Visited: _____

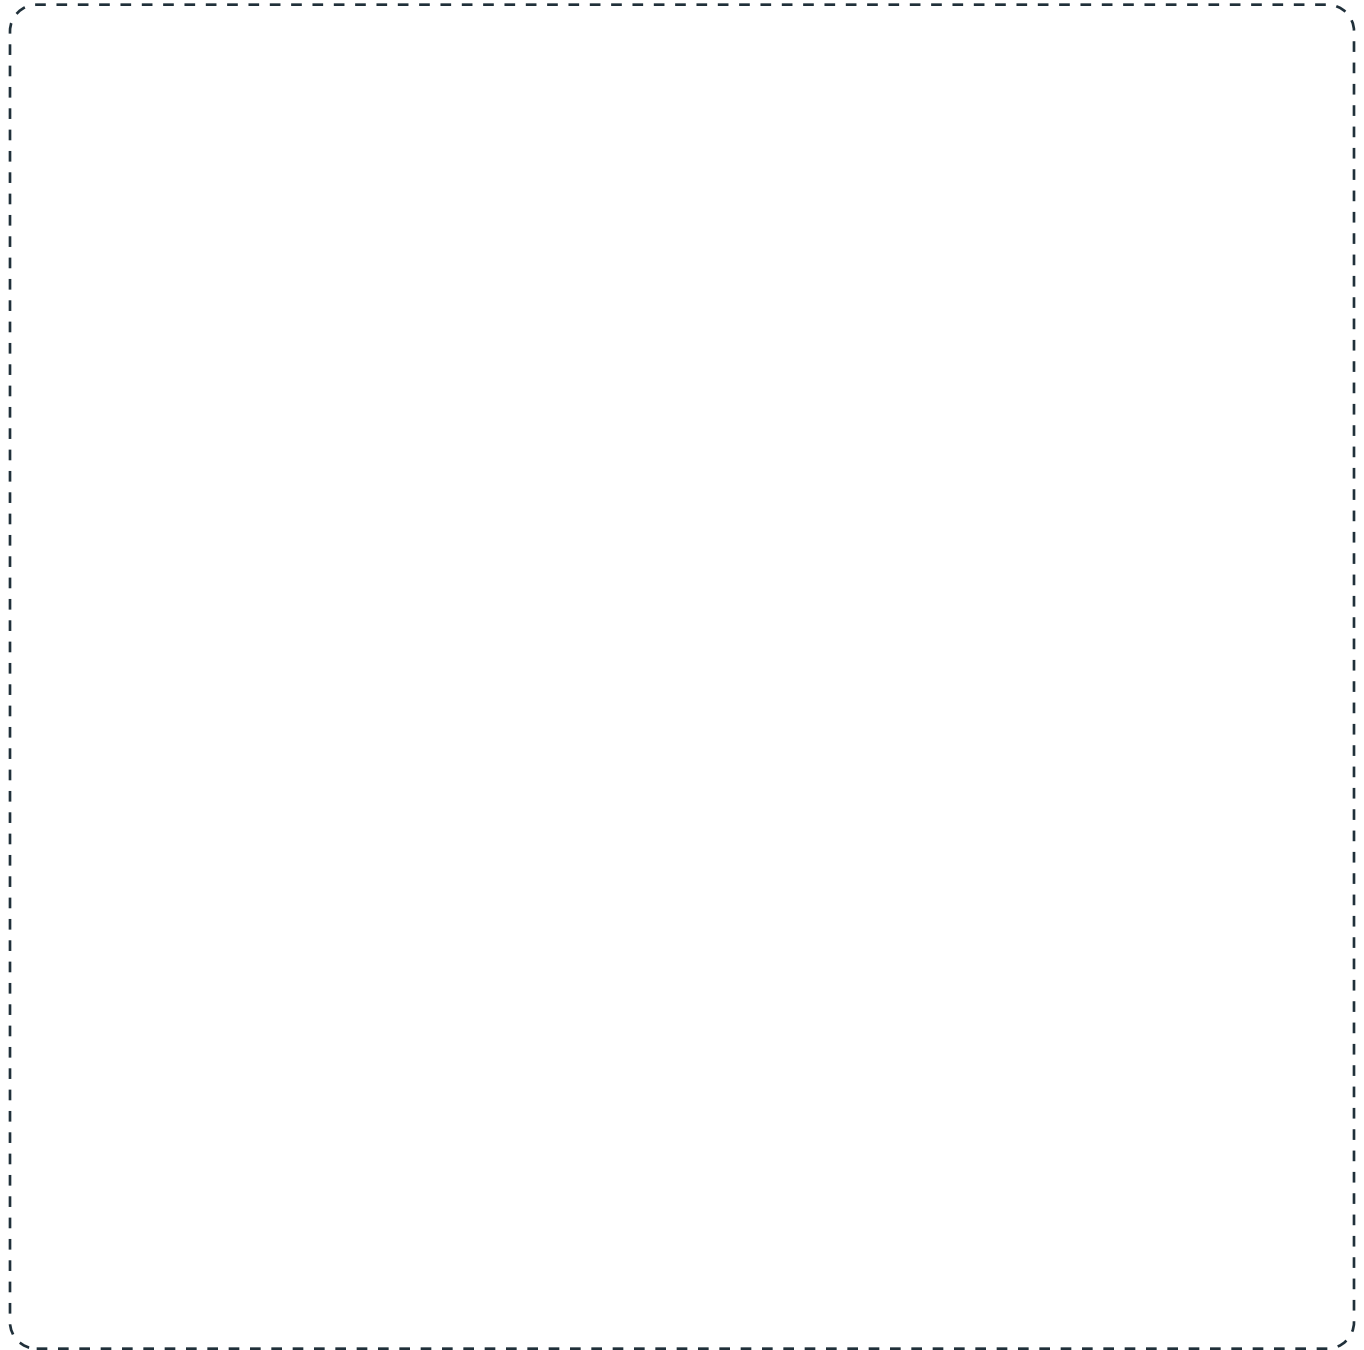

Mark the longest way somewhere — the one you take on purpose.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a place you've never seen anyone else visit.

A large, empty rectangular area defined by a dashed line, intended for a drawing or a written response to the prompt above.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere you'd take a visitor first.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for a user to mark a location on a map.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere you'd never take a visitor.

A large dashed rectangular box with rounded corners, intended for a user to draw or mark a location on a map.

MARK

Visited: _____

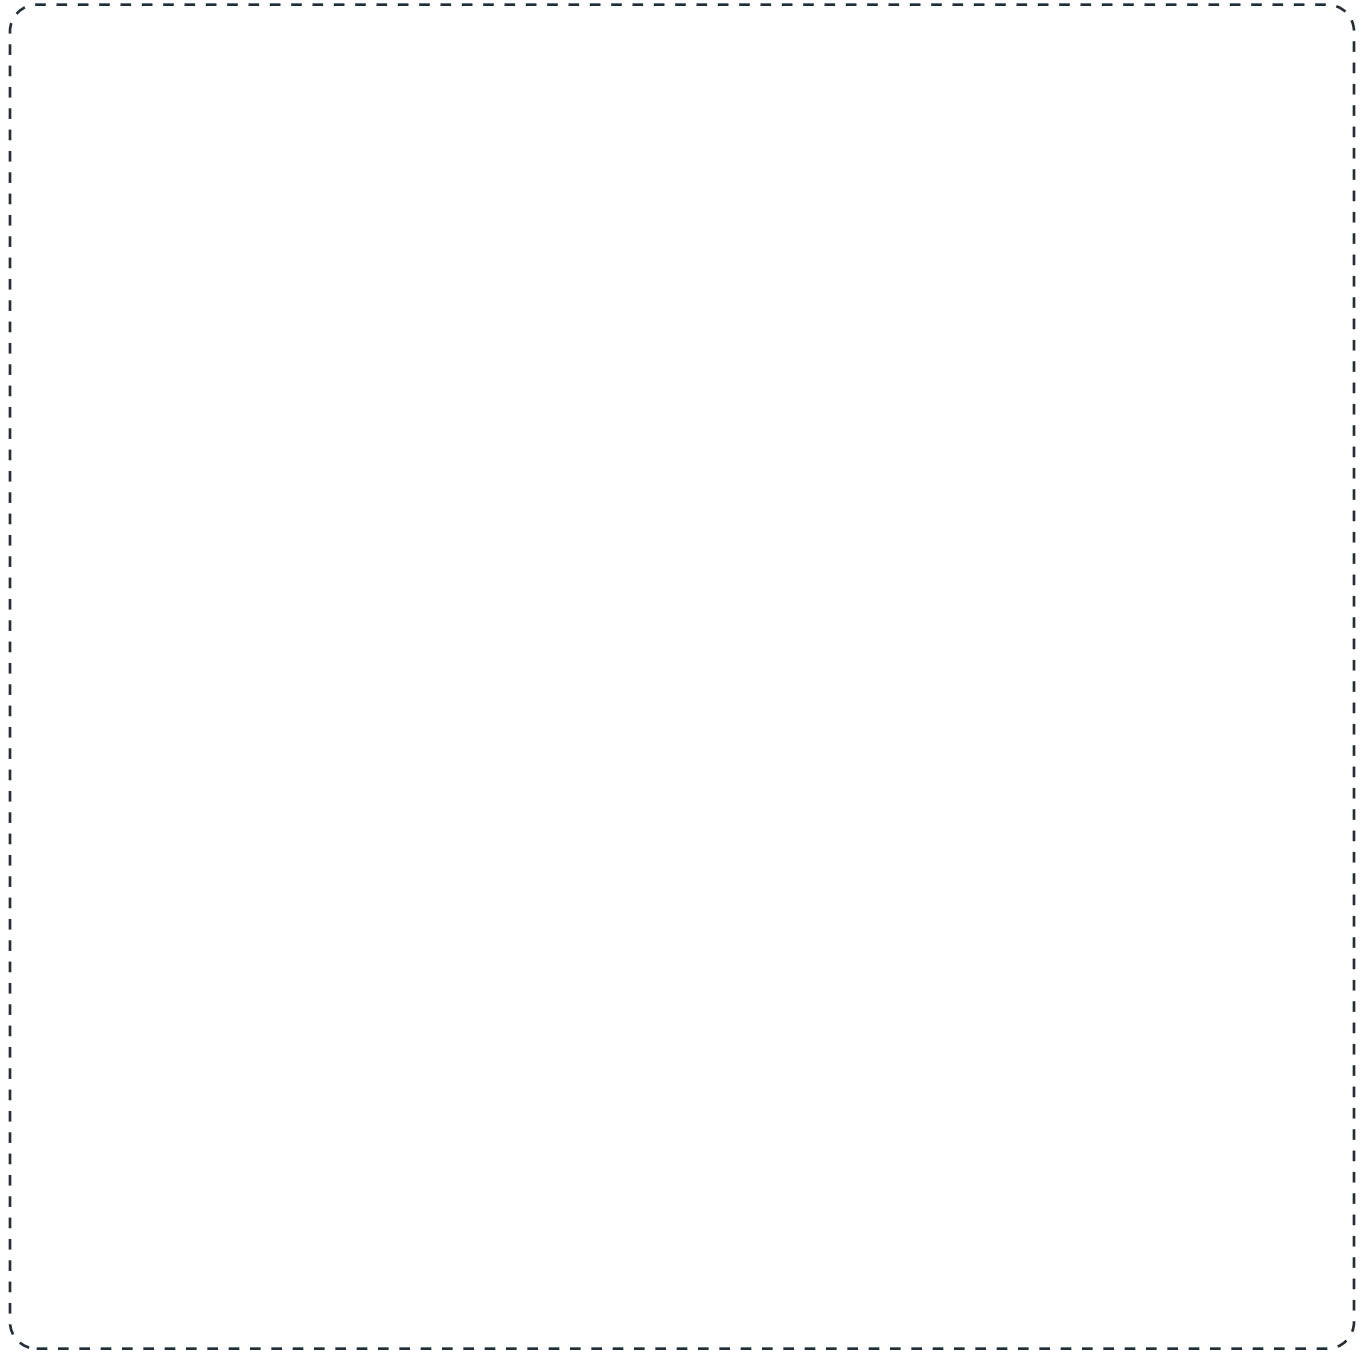

Mark a place that changed since you last paid attention to it.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for a user to draw or mark a place that has changed since their last visit.

MARK

Visited: _____

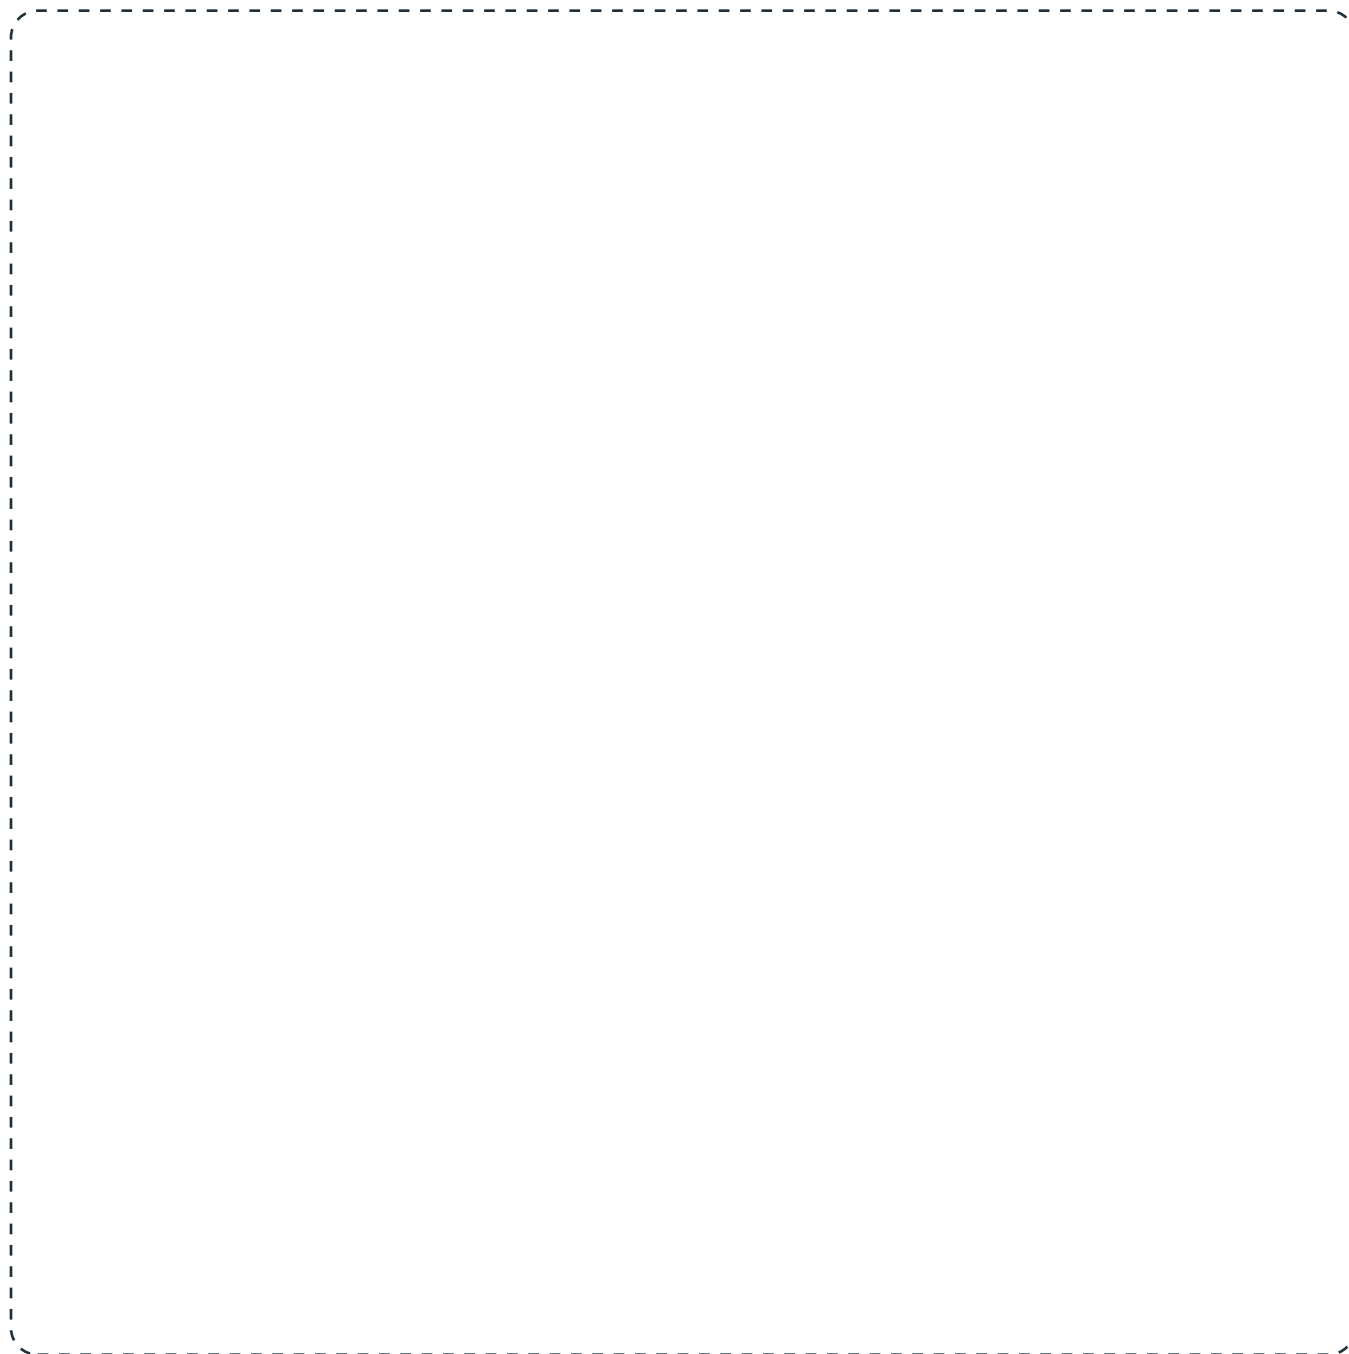

Mark somewhere you associate with one specific season.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark the place you go when you need to think.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for marking a place.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a spot that's disappeared — torn down, closed, gone.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for marking a spot that has disappeared.

MARK

Visited: _____

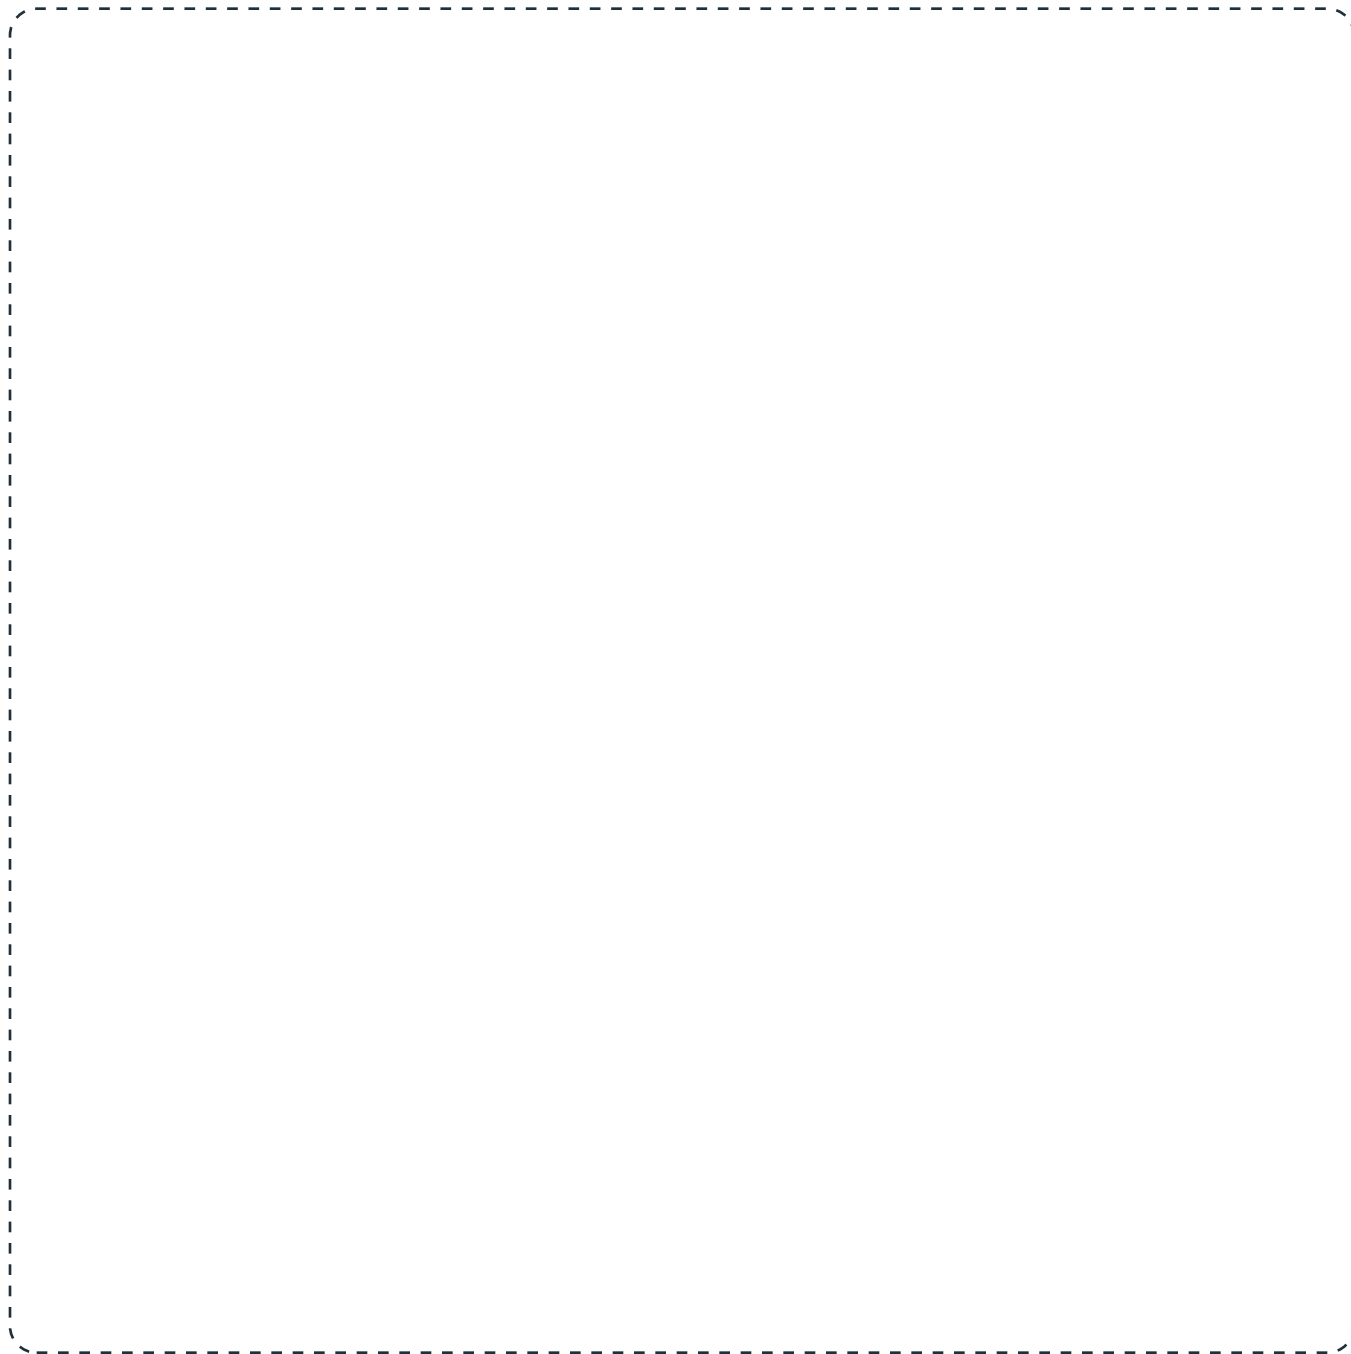

Mark somewhere you've cried, even a little.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for marking a location on a map.

MARK

Visited: _____

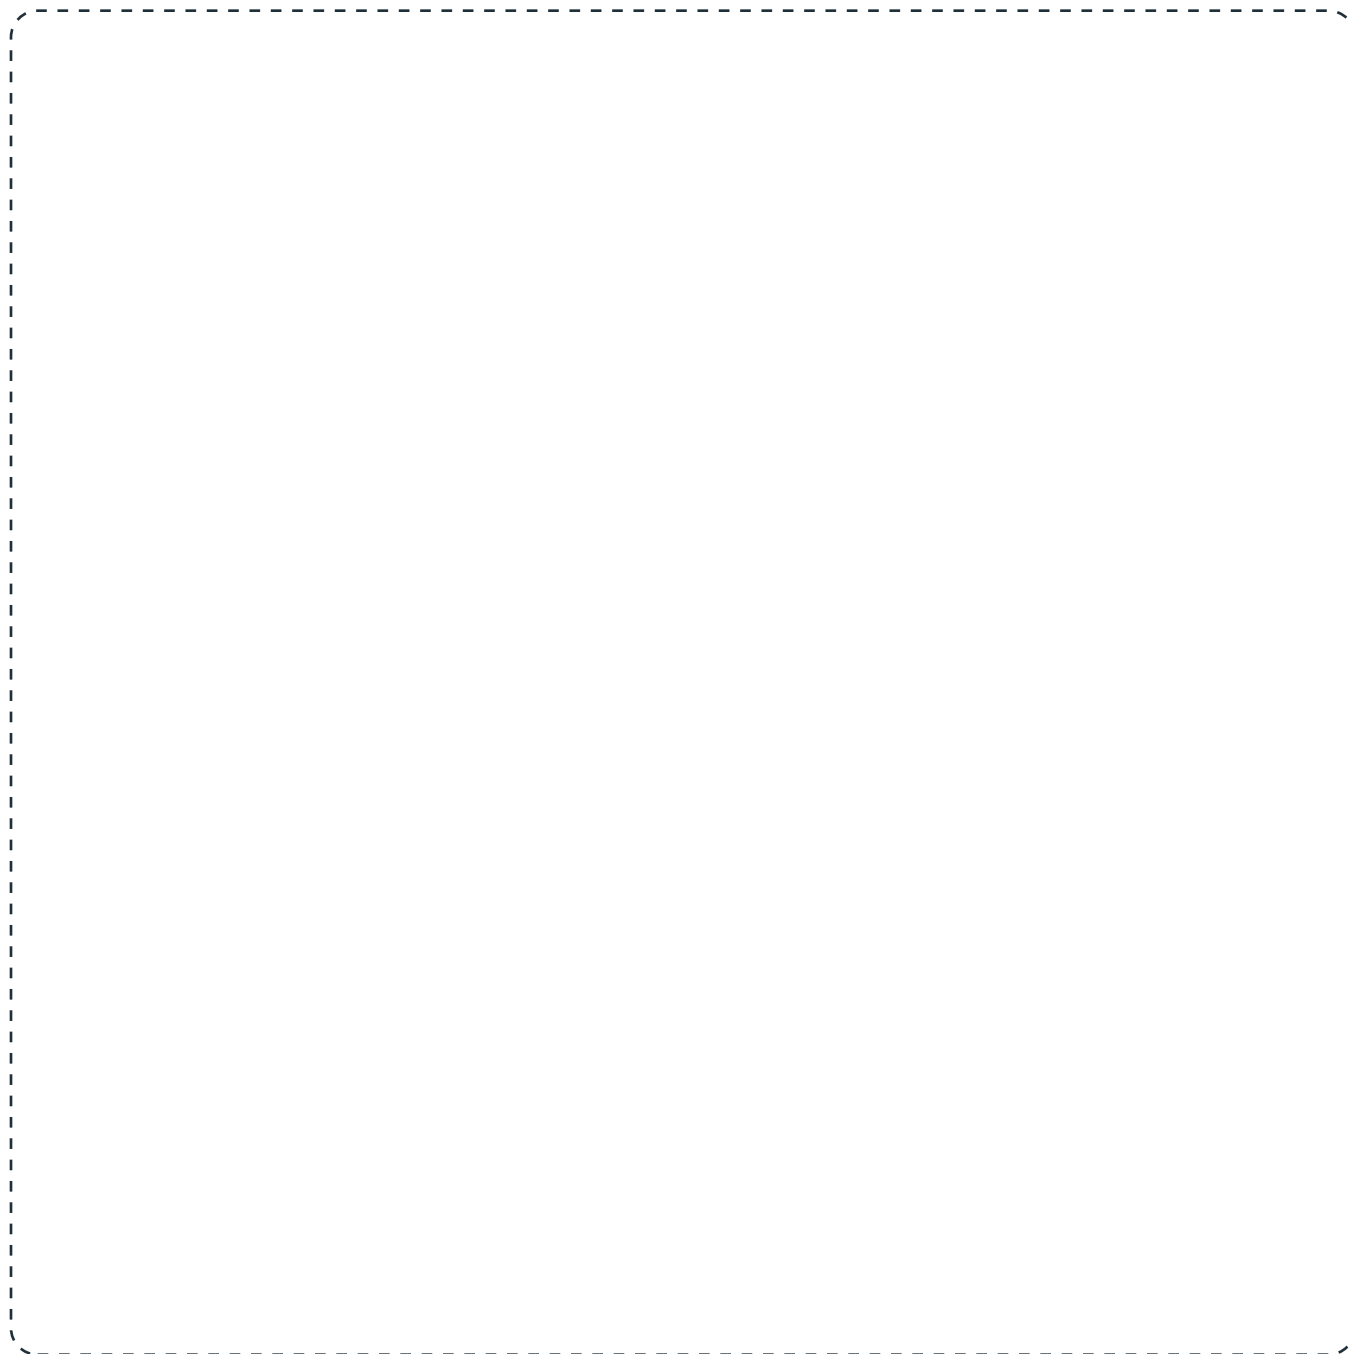

Mark a place you've only ever passed through, never stopped.

A large, empty rectangular area defined by a dashed line, intended for a drawing or a written description of a place.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere that smells like a memory you can't quite place.

A large, empty rectangular area defined by a dashed line, intended for a user to draw or write a response to the prompt above.

MARK

Visited: _____

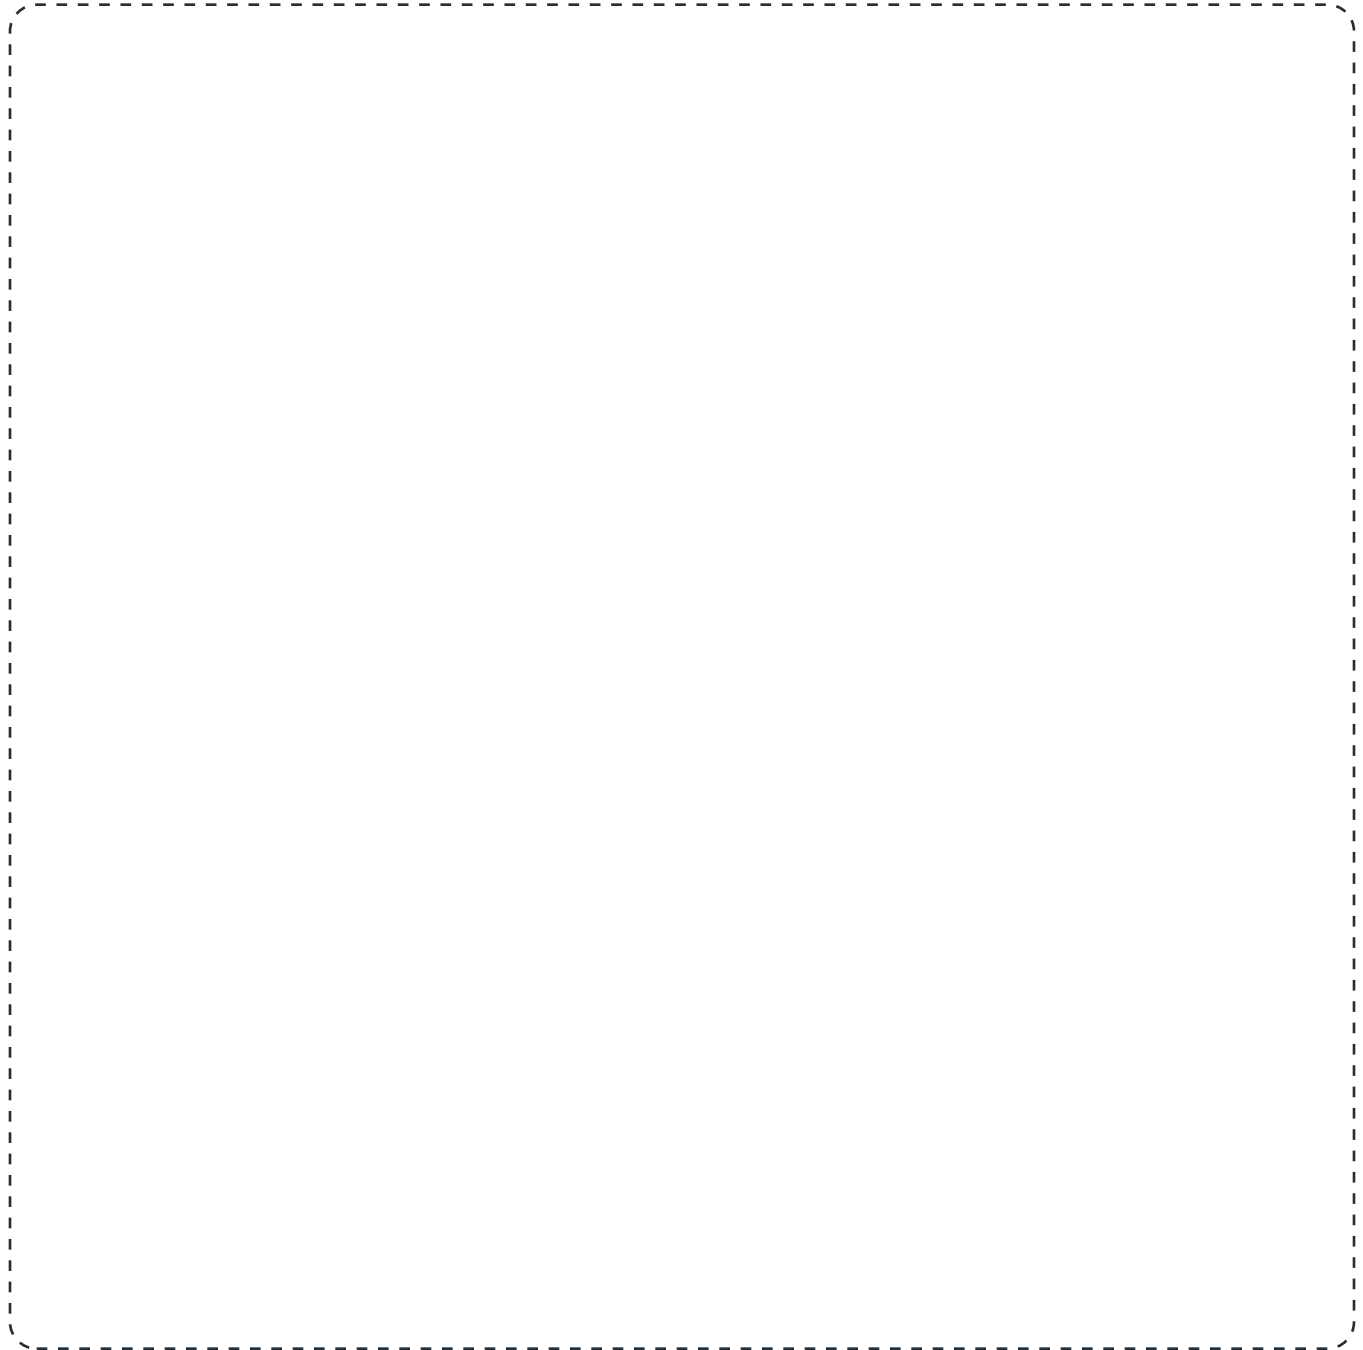

Mark a spot with the best light in the late afternoon.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere a stranger once did something kind.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a place you'd go if you had exactly one free hour.

A large dashed rectangular box with rounded corners, intended for a user to draw or mark a place they would visit if they had one free hour.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a corner that still scares you a little,
even now.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for the user to mark a corner that still scares them a little, even now.

MARK

Visited: _____

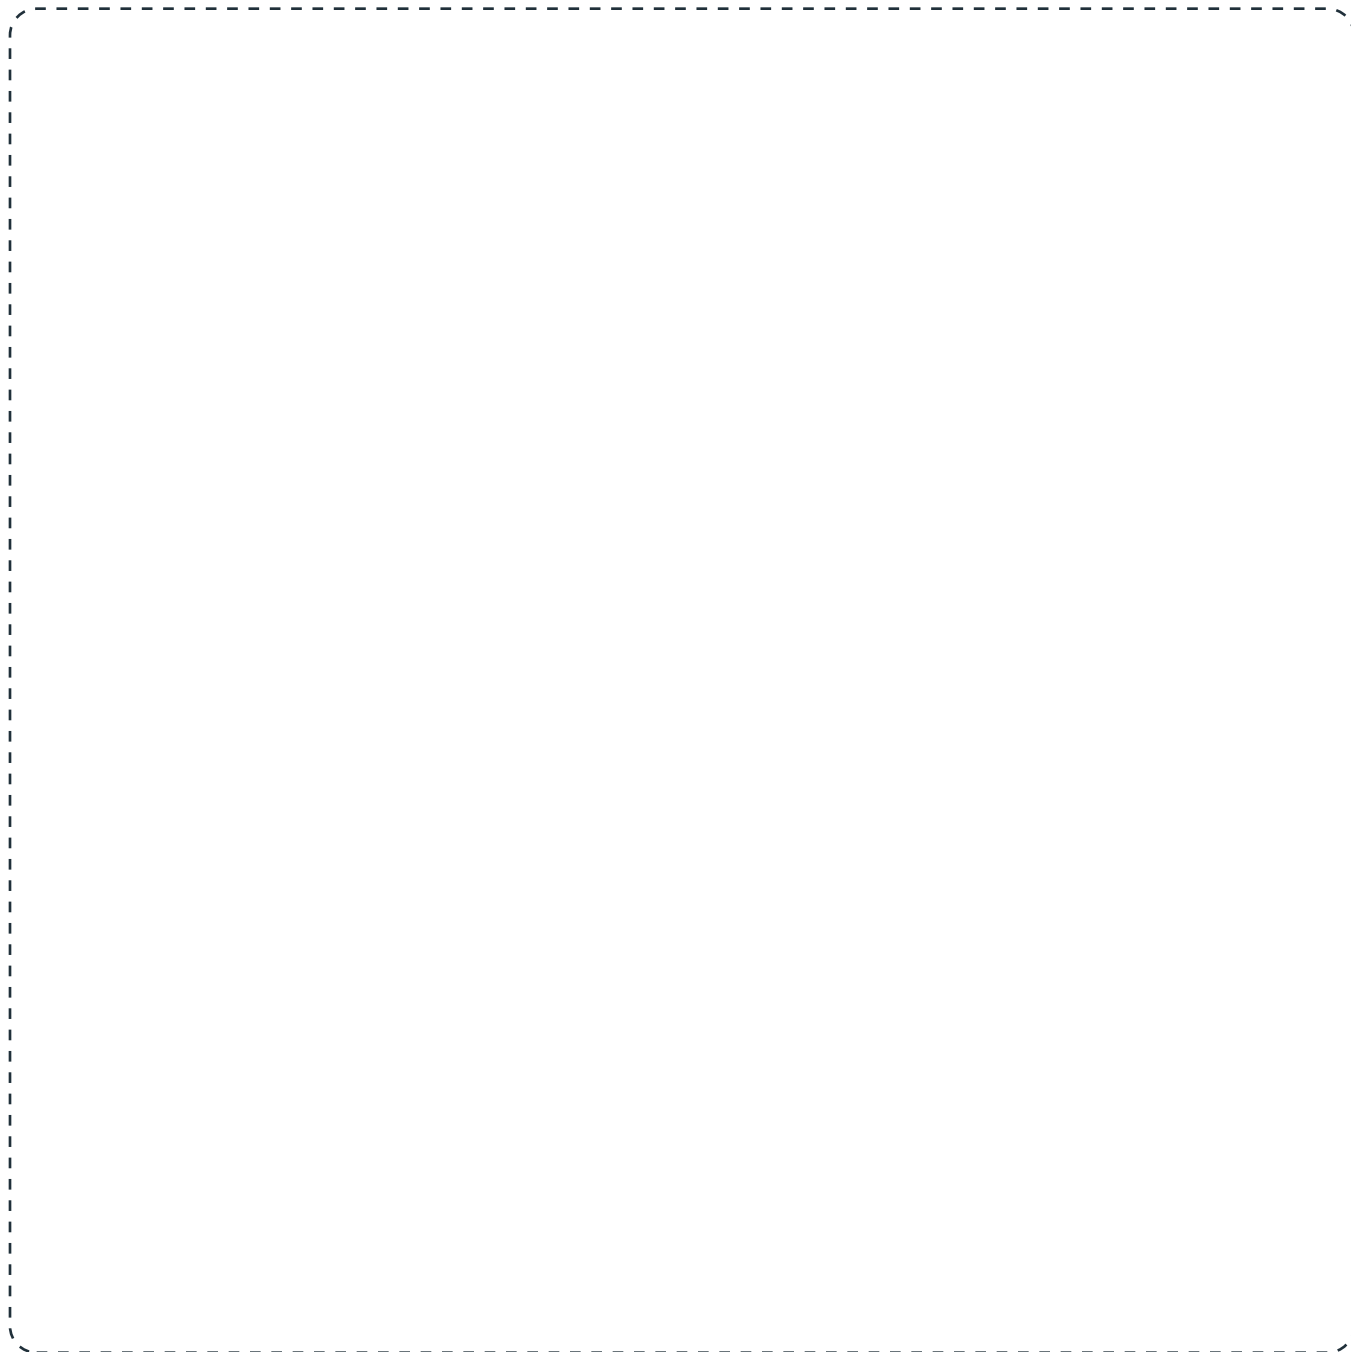

Mark somewhere you've celebrated something.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for marking a location on a map.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a place you pass constantly but have never actually looked at.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for a drawing or a written description of a place.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere you'd go to be found, if you were lost.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for a drawing or a written response to the prompt above.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a spot you associate with a sound, not a sight.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for marking a spot associated with a sound.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere that belongs entirely to your childhood.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for a drawing or marking related to the prompt above.

MARK

Visited: _____

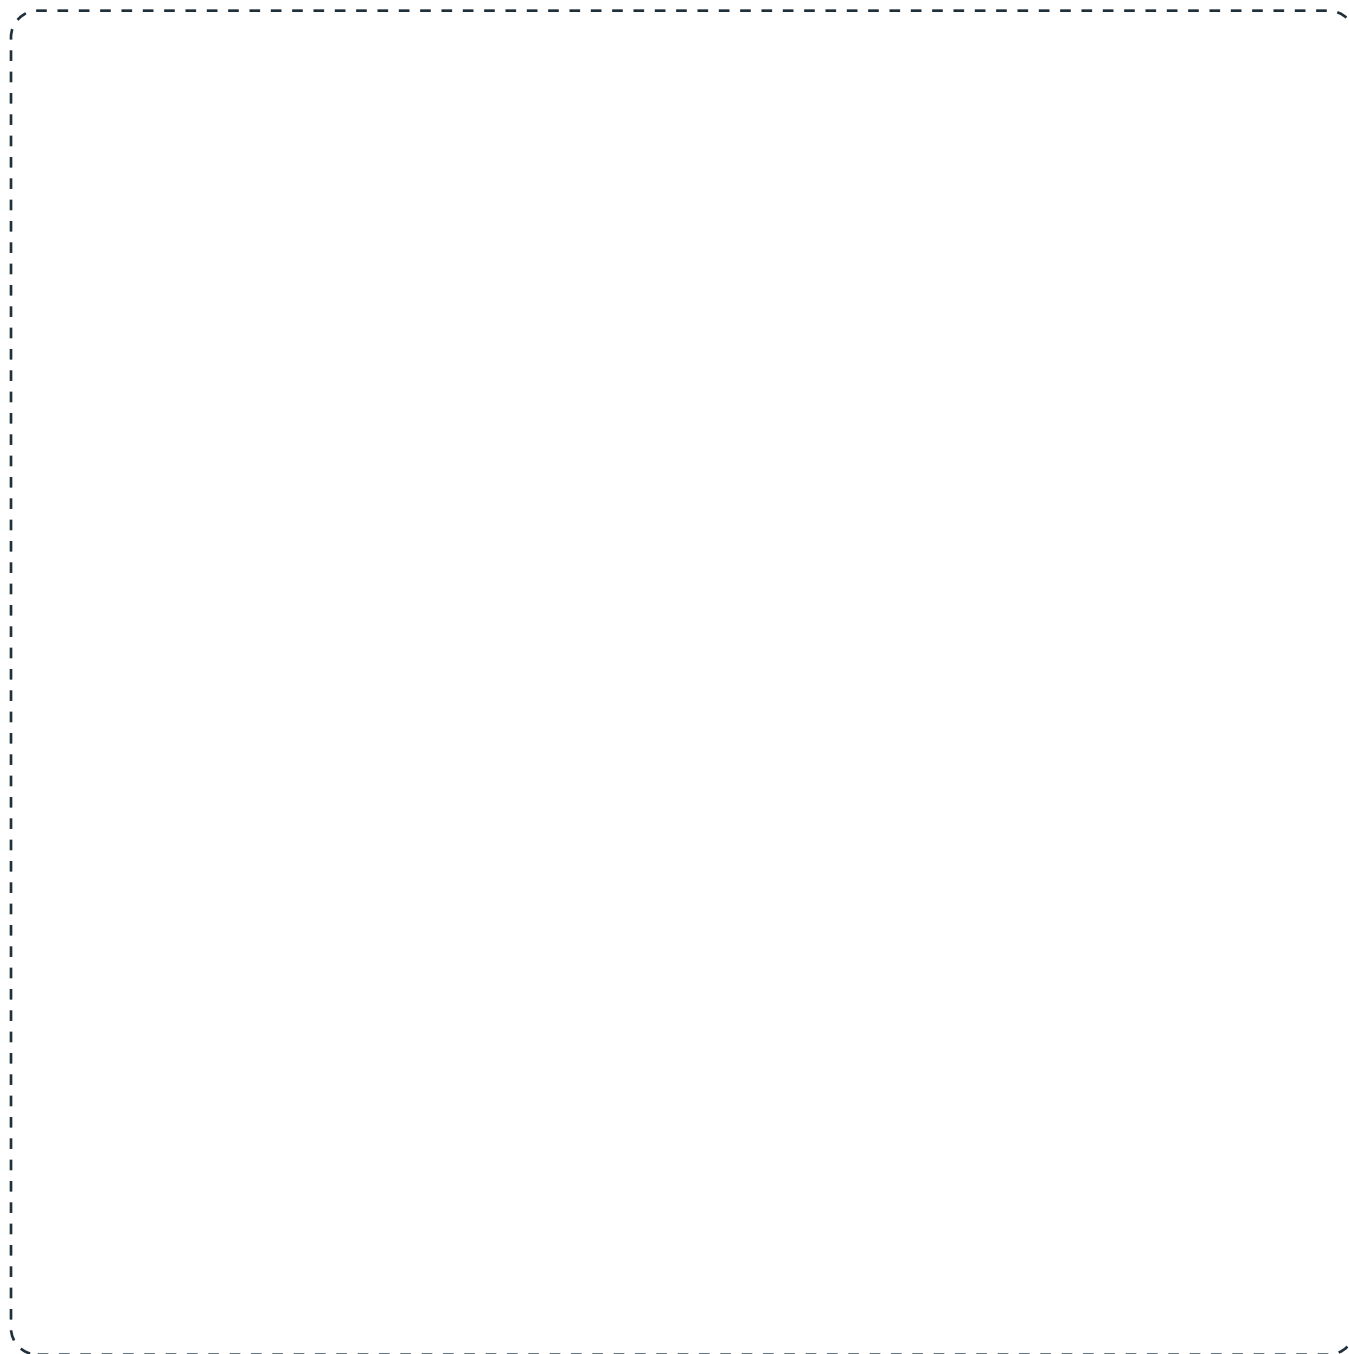

Mark a place you discovered completely by accident.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere you go on purpose to be alone.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a spot where the ground tells a story
— a crack, a root, a step worn smooth.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for marking a spot on a map or drawing.

MARK

Visited: _____

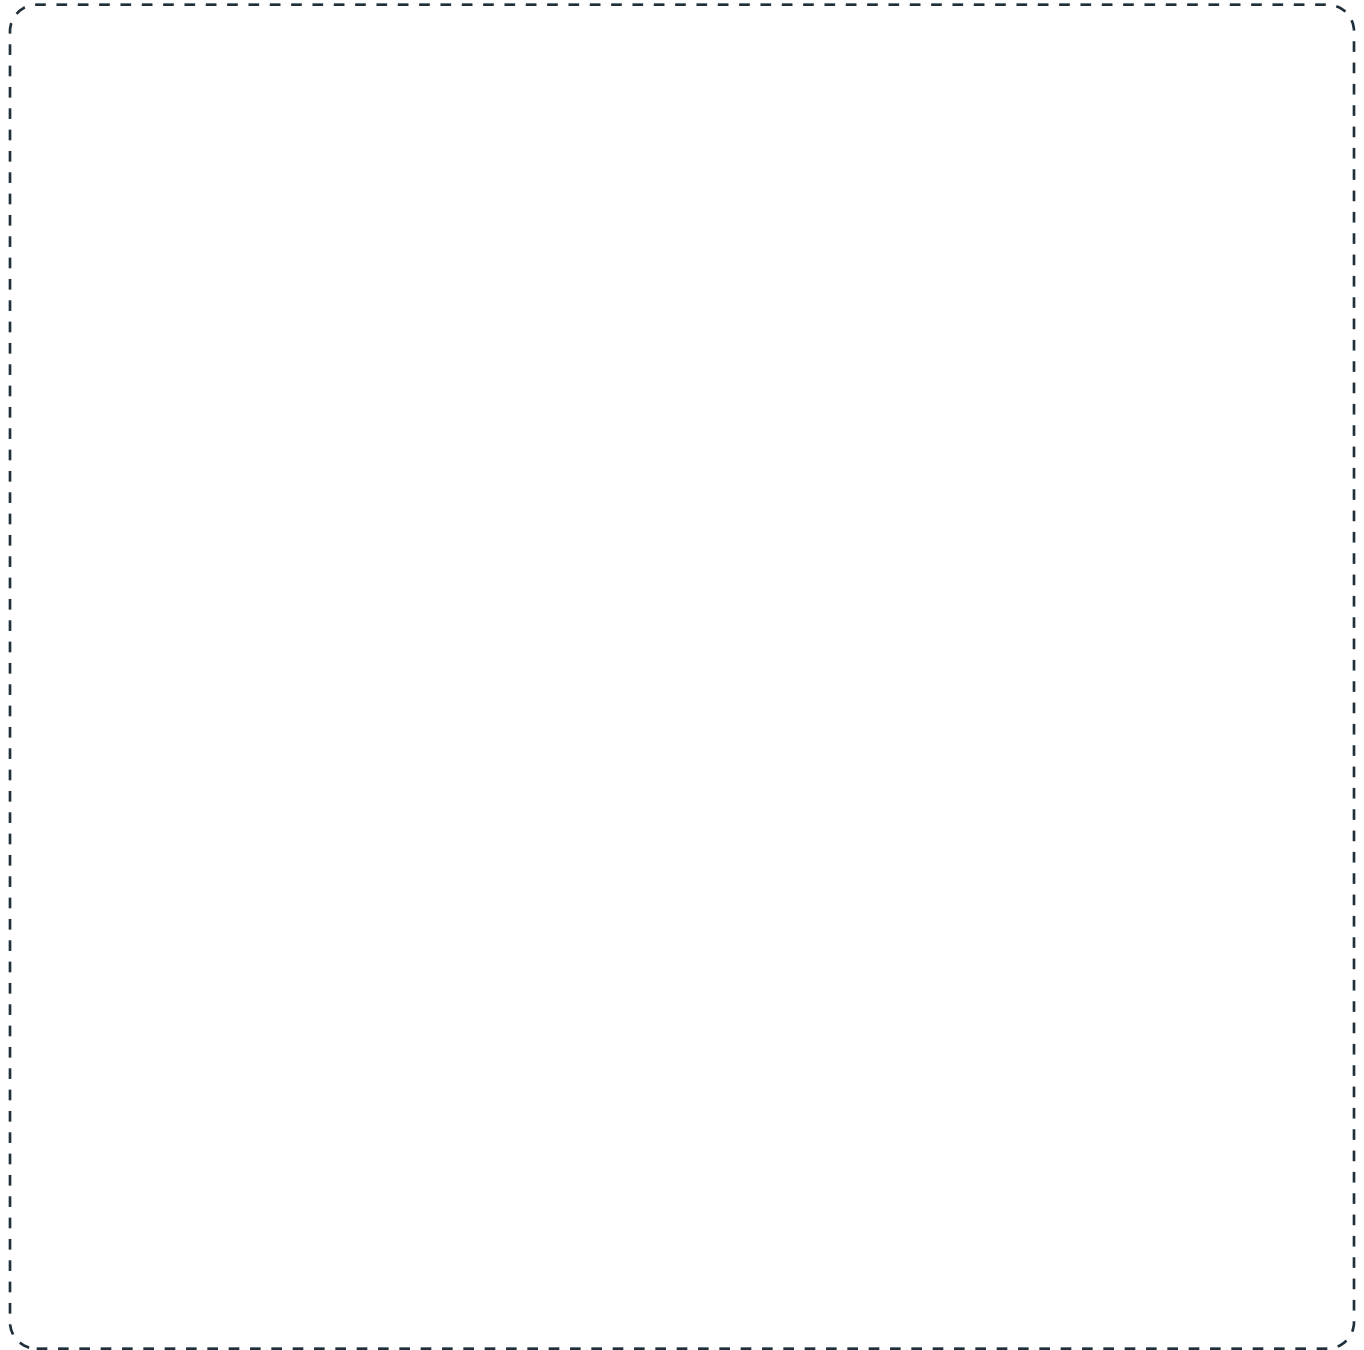

Mark somewhere you'd bury a time capsule.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark a place that only exists at a certain time of day.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark somewhere you've never been, but can see from where you live.

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for a user to draw or mark a location. The box is oriented vertically and occupies most of the page below the instruction.

MARK

Visited: _____

Mark the edge of your map — the place you consider "away."

A large, empty rectangular box with a dashed border, intended for a user to draw or mark the edge of their map.

The map is never finished.

Neither is the neighborhood. Keep adding to it.
