

MAYBEWELL BOOKS ★

FIELD NOTES · VOLUME TWO

Wander Without a Destination

An Instruction-Led Guide to Getting Pleasantly Lost

Camina Sin Rumbo

A WANDERING BOOK

get a little lost.

maybewellbooks.com

MAYBEWELL BOOKS

Wander Without a Destination

An Instruction-Led Guide to Getting Pleasantly Lost

get a little lost.

HOW THIS WORKS

Before You Wander

The French call it a dérive — a drift. Walking guided by nothing but instinct, a whim, or in this case, a page. No map, no destination, no app buzzing turn-by-turn directions in your ear. Just you, outside, following a rule strange enough to take you somewhere you wouldn't have gone on your own.

This book works in two moves:

WALK Each page gives you one instruction. That's your only map for this walk — no shortcuts, no peeking ahead to see where it leads.

LOG When you stop, jot down where you ended up and when. Then use the lines below to note one thing you noticed along the way. A wander without a record is just an errand.

The stars tell you what kind of walk you're in for:

- ★ ☆ ☆ easy — a short detour from your normal route
- ★ ★ ☆ some effort — you'll have to commit to it
- ★ ★ ★ a real challenge — time, patience, maybe a little nerve

There is no wrong way to get lost. The map was never really the point.

Go outside. Follow the instruction. See where you end up.

SECTION ONE • 10 WALKS

Turns & Chance

Let luck pick your corners. You just have to follow through.

WALK

Turn left at the third corner you reach. Keep walking until something makes you stop.

Don't pick the something. Let it pick you.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Flip a coin at every corner — heads turns right, tails turns left. Walk until you're bored of flipping.

No coin? Use a leaf, a pebble, whichever hand is closer to your pocket.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Pick a direction using nothing but which way the wind is blowing.

No wind today? Follow the first breeze you feel, even a small one.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

At every intersection, take whichever street looks less familiar.

Familiar is a habit. Today you're breaking it on purpose.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Think of a number from 1 to 6 before you leave. Turn that many times before choosing a direction to commit to.

Count out loud if it helps. This is the closest thing to a rule this walk has.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Turn toward whichever direction has more trees in view.

Green counts even if it's just one stubborn tree in a parking lot.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Let a stranger's turn decide yours — follow the direction of the next person who crosses your path, until they're out of sight, then choose your own.

You're not following them. You're borrowing their decision for thirty seconds.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

At each corner, alternate: first right, next left, next right, and so on, no matter how it backtracks you.

Keep a mental tally. Losing count is allowed — just restart from right.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Choose your first turn by whichever direction the nearest door is facing.

Any door. A house, a shop, a gate. It's just there to get you started.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk until you reach a color you weren't expecting, then turn toward it.

Unexpected doesn't mean rare. It means it surprised you specifically.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

SECTION TWO · 10 WALKS

Follow a Sense

Let your eyes, ears, and nose do the navigating for once.

WALK

Walk toward the loudest sound you can hear right now.

Traffic counts. So does a dog, a fountain, someone's music through a window.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Follow the color yellow for as long as you can find it.

A door, a sign, a flower, a jacket. Yellow is more common than you think.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Close your eyes for ten seconds, then walk toward whatever smell reaches you first.

Bread, exhaust, cut grass — the nose doesn't get to be picky today.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk with your eyes mostly on the ground for five minutes. Follow whatever texture changes under your feet — pavement to grass to gravel.

Keep your peripheral vision for safety. The point is what's underfoot, not what's ahead.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk toward the coolest patch of shade you can see.

Shade moves all day. So will you, chasing the next one.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Find the quietest street nearby and walk its full length before deciding what's next.

Quiet is relative. Just quieter than where you started.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk without your phone in your hand for 10 minutes.
Notice what you notice.

Pocket it, don't just silence it. The point is not reaching for it.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Follow whichever direction smells the most like food.

A bakery, a food cart, someone's kitchen window. Let your stomach navigate.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk toward the brightest patch of sunlight you can see, then find the next one from there.

Chain the bright spots together like stepping stones.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk with one hand trailing along every fence, wall, or railing you pass, and let your route bend to keep the touch unbroken.

When the surface ends, walk to the nearest one that continues it.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

SECTION THREE · 10 WALKS

Follow at a Distance

Ethical, gentle, at-a-distance people-watching. A borrowed direction, nothing more.

WALK

Follow the next person wearing blue, from a distance, until they turn a corner.

A respectful distance. You're a shadow, not a tail.

LOG

● Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and extend across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Pick someone walking a dog ahead of you and match their pace for one block.

The dog won't mind. It's used to being interesting.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Follow someone until they stop for any reason, then continue on your own from wherever that was.

A red light, a shop window, a phone call — any stop counts. Peel off after.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Choose the next person who looks like they know exactly where they're going, and follow their confidence for two minutes.

You're not copying their route. You're borrowing their certainty.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Follow whoever is walking fastest within view, until they're gone.

You don't have to match their speed. Just their direction.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Follow the next cyclist you see, on foot, for as long as you reasonably can.

You will lose them quickly. That's fine — note where you lost them.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Pick someone carrying something interesting — a bag, an instrument, flowers — and let their path be yours for a few minutes.

Curiosity about the object is allowed. Following them home is not.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Follow the next person who checks their phone, until they put it away.

This one usually doesn't take long. Have a backup plan ready.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Watch which way the next person glances before crossing a street, and cross the same way.

Their glance is a tiny decision. Borrow it.

LOG

● Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Follow two strangers walking together, at a distance, until their conversation — or their path — ends.

You're not eavesdropping. You're just walking the same way, coincidentally.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

SECTION FOUR · 10 WALKS

Time Limits

The clock decides when the walk turns. You just keep your feet moving.

WALK

Walk for exactly 8 minutes, then turn around and walk home a completely different way.

Set a timer. The turnaround is non-negotiable, even mid-step.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk in one direction for 3 minutes, then decide what happens next once you stop.

Three minutes is shorter than it feels. Don't check the clock early.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Give yourself exactly 15 minutes to reach somewhere you've never been, using any route.

It doesn't have to be far. New counts more than distant.

LOG

● Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and extend across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk for 60 seconds, stop completely, and just look around before continuing.

A full minute of walking is longer than you think — don't rush it.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Set a timer for 20 minutes. Walk until it rings, no matter where that leaves you, then find your own way home.

This is the closest thing to genuinely getting lost on purpose.

LOG

● Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk for exactly 5 minutes toward the tallest thing you can see.

A building, a crane, a tree. It'll probably take longer to reach than five minutes — that's fine.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Give yourself 2 minutes to find somewhere to sit, then sit there for 2 more.

A bench, a step, a curb. The sitting matters as much as the finding.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk for 10 minutes without checking the time once — guess when it's up.

You'll be off. Log both the guess and the real number.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Alternate one minute walking, one minute standing completely still, for as long as you can keep track.

The standing-still minutes are the hard part. Let people wonder about you.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk until you've counted to 100 steps, then pick a new direction.

Count out loud or in your head. Losing count means starting the count over, not the walk.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

SECTION FIVE · 10 WALKS

Reverse Instructions

Undo your own habits. Walk the walk you'd never normally choose.

WALK

Walk normally for five minutes, then retrace your exact steps back to where you started.

Try to remember the actual path — not just the general direction.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk backward, safely and slowly, for as long as you comfortably can.

Find a straight, empty stretch. Glance back often. Safety beats commitment here.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Pick a walk you've done a hundred times and do the opposite of every instinct — turn where you'd usually go straight, and vice versa.

Your feet will try to autopilot. Catch them and redirect.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Start at what would normally be your endpoint and walk toward what would normally be your start.

Same route, opposite intention. Notice what you see first this way that you never do.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk to the last place you can clearly remember visiting, using only memory, no directions.

Getting it slightly wrong is part of the exercise.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk away from home first, in any direction, before turning back — stretch the trip by wandering the 'wrong' way before heading in.

The point is delaying arrival, not efficiency.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Take the mirror-image route of a walk you took recently — every left becomes a right.

You don't need the exact same walk. Just flip the turns as you go.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk somewhere with the specific goal of getting mildly turned around, then find your way out using only landmarks, not directions.

Pick landmarks you'll actually remember: a red door, a big tree, a mural.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are approximately 20 lines visible. The paper has a slight shadow on the right side, suggesting it's resting on a surface. There is no handwriting or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Recall your favorite walk from this book and do the exact opposite instruction on the same street.

If it said turn toward, turn away. If it said follow, ignore.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

SECTION SIX • 10 WALKS

Weather-Led

Sun, wind, rain, and shade are all willing to give directions.

WALK

Walk toward wherever the sun is hitting a wall or building most directly.

Sun-warmed brick has its own smell. See if you notice it.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk against the wind for as long as you can stand it, then turn and let it push you home.

The turnaround feels like relief. That's the whole point.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

After rain, follow the largest puddles you can find, tracing a path from one to the next.

Reflections count as scenery. Look down as much as up.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

On a cloudy day, walk toward the brightest patch of sky.

Even gray has a brighter gray. Trust your eyes.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk until you find shade, rest there until you're cool, then walk until you find sun again.

Let your body pick the pace, not the clock.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

On a windy day, follow whatever the wind is visibly moving — a flag, a plastic bag, loose leaves — for as long as you can track it.

You'll lose it and find a new one. That's a new instruction, not a failure.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk toward the nearest sound of water — a fountain, a sprinkler, a gutter running.

Water finds its way downhill. So can you.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

On a cold day, walk the sunniest route you can find, corner by corner.

Your body already knows how to do this. Just follow it on purpose.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Time your walk to a change in weather — leave right as the sky is shifting and walk until the shift is complete.

Check the sky before you check anything else today.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk with your face turned toward wherever the air feels different — cooler, warmer, damper — chasing the change.

Micro-weather is real: one corner is always a few degrees off from the last.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

SECTION SEVEN • 10 WALKS

Free Wander

No instruction left to give you. The hunt — the walk — is yours now.

WALK

No-instruction walk.

Go outside. Walk wherever you want. Log it like you followed a rule anyway.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Five-minute walk.

Short and undirected. Sometimes that's the whole assignment.

📍 Where I ended up: 📅 Date:

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Write your own instruction first, then follow it.

Make up a rule as strange as any in this book, then obey it.

📍 Where I ended up: 📅 Date:

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk somewhere you've never walked before.

Even a street you've only ever driven past counts.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Walk with someone else's instruction.

Ask a friend to make one up for you. Borrowed rules are still rules.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Repeat your favorite instruction from this book, on a different day.

Same instruction, different day, different walk. That's the whole trick.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

Walk at a time of day you don't usually go outside.

Early, late, midday lull — pick whichever feels unfamiliar.

📍 Where I ended up: 📅 Date:

one thing along the way

[illegible]

WALK

Walk your own neighborhood as if you were a visitor seeing it for the first time.

Notice what you'd point out to a stranger.

LOG

📍 Where I ended up: _____

 Date: _____

NOTICE

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

A walk with no destination and no instruction at all.

This is the whole book, distilled. Just go.

📍 Where I ended up: 📅 Date:

one thing along the way

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

WALK

Design tomorrow's walk tonight.

Write the instruction here, follow it when you wake up. Leave yourself something strange to do.

LOG

● Where I ended up:

 Date:

NOTICE

one thing along the way

[illegible]

Arrived? That's not really the point.

There's no destination to check off here. Just the next walk.

70 walks · 7 sections · ∞

Share your route: #WanderWithoutADestination

MAYBEWELL BOOKS

get a little lost.